Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—Three more lives were sacrificed today at the Indianapolis motor speedway. The fatal accident occurred when the National car driven by Charles Merz, in the 300 mile race, lost a tire, crashing through a fence into a group of spectators.

After the second accident the officials called off the 300-mile race. The race was declared no contest. The speedway trophy will be raced again soon.

By a freak of fortune Merz escaped with hardly a scratch.

Today's race was the first of the season.

Smoke Still Floating Out of Chimneys of Pressed Steel Car Company's Plant.

Pittsburg, Aug. 23.—Three columns of smoke floated from the chimneys of the Pressed Steel Car company's plant in Schoenville to-night, the plant being still in operation despite the efforts of mobs to scare off the imported workmen.

Tonight the strikers realized for the first time their jobs are gone and that the company could do without them. Twenty-five men were arrested today and put into box car jails.

It was announced late today that the United States government will take up the peonage charges against President F. N. McLean and Foreman, of the Pressed Steel Car company.

Federal Quarantine for Sheep Scab in Kentucky Modified.

The quarantine recently declared by the United States Department of Agriculture on the State of Kentucky on account of the disease known as scabies in sheep has been modified so as to permit the reforwarding in interstate commerce of shipments from other states of sheep that are free from scabies and from exposure thereto, and that in transit through Kentucky are unloaded at points in that state, provided such unloading shall be into pens or yards which have been specially cleaned and disinfected for the purpose, under the supervision of an employee of the Bureau of Animal Industry, and which have been specially designated and approved for that purpose by the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

The quarantine has also been modified so as to permit the interstate shipment of sheep of States not quarantined for scabies, which are exhibited at the Kentucky State fair to be held at Louisville, September 13 to 18, subject to the following restrictions:

Such sheep shall be shipped by rail to Louisville and shall not be unloaded in the area quarantined for sheep scabies elsewhere than at Louisville. Separate cleaned and disinfected chutes and other facilities shall be provided for the exclusive unloading of such sheep at Louisville. Such sheep shall be hauled in cleaned and disinfected wagons direct from the cars in which they arrive at Louisville to the fair grounds, and from the fair grounds direct to the cars in which they are to be reshipped.

That portion of the fair grounds or other premises to be occupied exclusively by such sheep shall be cleaned and disinfected under the supervision of an employee of the Bureau of Animal Industry before said sheep are placed therein.

Such sheep shall not be moved interstate from Louisville except in cleaned and disinfected cars, nor unless accompanied by a certificate issued by an inspector of the Bureau of Animal Industry showing that the sheep have had no opportunity to become infected with scabies.

bureau. The disturbance is declared to be of marked intensity and to be central over the gulf south of Louisiana coast. It is apparently moving northwestward.

Torrential rains have been in evidence at many points in the Gulf states between Florida and Texas today.

Rifle Range.

The Hopkinsville soldiers, who have returned from the Third Regiment encampment say that the rifle range at Earlinton is excellent. It was built at the cost of $8,000 by the national government and is the only one like it in Kentucky. Each man has 12 shots at 200 yards, 12 at 300 yards and 12 at 500; the 12 at 200 yards are fired at standing position, 300 at sitting and 500 at lying. No small amount of trouble was experienced in regulating the sights of the new guns.—Hopkinsville New Era.

L. & N. WILL INSTALL AUDITORS

Who Will Collect and Punch all Tickets.

CONDUCTORS TO BE RELIEVED OF THIS ARDUOUS TASK.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 23.—The announcement that auditors would shortly be placed on all L & N. trains to receive and punch tickets, has been made, thus relieving the conductors of the duty.

Local railroad men had in most instances heard reports of the contemplated change but none were able to say when the new rule would become effective.

It is expected, however, that within a few weeks all local trains arriving and departing will carry the auditors for the special purpose of attending to the passenger transportation and individually keeping tab on the tickets collected.

The change will be agreeable to every conductor on the road and to other railroad men in general. It is realized that it will afford the conductor a better opportunity to attend strictly to his train business, possibly bettering the service in so far as the passenger trains are concerned.

The auditor system is already in effect on several eastern roads and it has been pronounced a success.

RACES OPEN AT HENDERSON.

Last Saturday and Will Last 15 Days—Witnessed by Large Crowd.

Henderson, Ky., Aug. 23.—About 1,200 people witnessed the opening day's races at the fair grounds Saturday. Those who attended were well repaid, as the card offered was high class. The weather was cool and delightful, and the track fast.

The feature of the afternoon was the Inaugural Handicap, the distance being six furlongs, and the purse $500, won by Grenade.

The excellent music rendered at the races Saturday by Huhlein's Military Band was complimented on all sides. The band made itself popular with the patrons and is a big drawing card and is making the best music ever heard in this city. The band went to Evansville Saturday morning and paraded the streets during the morning. At 2 o'clock it returned and was taken to the grounds at once by special car. The band will go to Evansville each morning during the meeting.

The meeting is given by the Albuquerque Racing Association, and will last 15 days, having five races daily. Some of the best horses in the country are on the grounds, and some good racing is assured.

St. Bernard Lodge at Hopkinsville.

Twenty-three members of the St. Bernard Lodge, No. 240 I. O. F., Earlinton, Ky., visited Green River Lodge No. 54, Monday night, Aug. 16. The members came up on the 5:30 p. m. train and were met at the station by a committee of the lodge. A six o'clock dinner was served at the Hill Hotel after which the jolly crowd of Earlintonians were taken to the Odd Fellows hall.

The lodge was opened in the morning degree, four candidates being presented themselves for reception. The candidates were turned over to the visitors, one of the mysteries of the lodge was revealed to them in a most impressive and beautiful manner. The function really of a social character, Earlinton lodge having issued an invitation of Green River Lodge to come and have a time, which they certainly did. Hopkinsville lodge has a team that is not excelled in the State unless it is the Lexington lodge. Earlinton lodge is well up in ritual and first that she may be considered a friendly rival of the local lodge. They are very fond of each other, and when they meet the is always most fraternal. The formal close of the social session was, held at the arrival of the 10:10 p. m. bound train, which took the lighted visitors back to homes.—Hopkinsville Messenger.

BLOSSOMS THAT DO NOT MIX

Florist Tells of a Few Things He Has Learned in His Business of Handling Flowers.

The florist frowned as he took up an order for a table decoration. "That will never do," he muttered. After calling up the customer and suggesting a change, he told his new clerk a few things.

"You must never take an order that calls for a mixture of mignonette and roses," he said. "A centerpiece of those two flowers wouldn't last half through the luncheon. They simply wilt one another. I don't know why, but they can't get along together."

"It is true of many flowers. Pansies, for instance, last twice as long as if they are not combined with any other flower, and the same may be said of violets. Jonquills and daffodils, on the other hand, seem to get a new lease of life if you combine considerable green with them. Carnations will go all to pieces if you combine them with roses, although the roses do not seem to be affected."

"It is more striking in combinations of green with flowers. If you try to use an entirely different type of foliage from what the flower is used to, it won't last so long. So I never put feathery foliage with lilies of the valley, for you know its natural foliage is a thick leaf. I never use thick leaves with carnations, for their foliage is of the feathery type. It isn't as though the flowers fought, but they seem to grieve at being misunderstood."

Calvin a Man of the World. Calvin had many advantages. He was not a scholar merely, he was a man of the world. He had traveled, was familiar with the life of courts, was on terms of intimate friendship with many of the most distinguished persons of his day. He had a commanding intellect, a literary style which was the envy and admiration of the learned. He knew law as well as he did theology. French as well as he did Latin. His grasp of a wide range of subjects and his attention to detail were things to marvel at. Add to these an inexhaustible patience and a bulldog tenacity of purpose, a vivid human interest and an amazing capacity for work, and we begin to understand how it was that this penitent and sickly foreigner, who came to Geneva in the first instance so utterly unknown and without prestige as to figure in the records merely as "a Frenchman," ended by setting his stamp so inefficably upon the place that it remains there even to our own day.—Century.

Slow. It has been at least a week since he acquired three lion pelts; We're patient, but it's nearly time Old Sure Shot shot at something else.

Citing an Example. "Great men often rise from small beginnings," remarked the moralizer. "That's right," rejoined the demoralizer. "Take our 300-pound president for example. He was once a little baby."

More Plausible. Tjarks—The moon is dead. Bjenks—Yes, and they say it came out of the Pacific ocean. Tjarks—H'm! Why don't they say it came out of the Dead sea?

Hanging Fire. "I hear that Comeup's inquiries about his ancestors have been suspended. I wonder why." "I guess because he found some of the ancestors suspended, too."

BLERIOT'S FLIGHT A THRILLER

Under the Mistaken Impression That the Finishing Line Was Closer, Curtiss Comes Close to Earth, But Gets in Air Again.

Rhénus, France, Aug. 21.—(Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, and M. Paulhan, representing France, divided the honors of the second day of aviation week, the former with a thrilling flight just before dusk, in which he lowered the speed record for the course, which measures 6 1-5 miles, to 8 minutes 25 2-5 seconds; the latter making two impressive high altitude flights of 49 1-2 and 56 kilometers respectively, in the endurance test for the prix de la Champagne.

Curtiss' performance began just as the time limit for the start of the prix de la Champagne was expiring, when the American enthusiasts had abandoned hope of seeing their representative take the field. Amid the unbounded jubilation of the French spectators, Blériot only a few minutes before had clipped sixteen seconds off Lefebvre's record made with his powerful full eighty power monoplane. Suddenly, at one end of the field, a cry went up:

"The American is starting!" All eyes were strained to that particular point, where Cortlandt Field Bishop, president of the Aero club of America, and a crowd of other admirers surrounded Curtiss.

Curtiss Gets Good Start. With a preliminary run along the ground of one hundred yards, the machine rose lightly and shot by the tribunes at a height of sixty feet. It was going at a terrific pace, with the wing level as a plane. Curtiss made the last turn under the mistaken impression that the finish line was closer. He descended so close to the earth that many thought he touched, but perceiving his error, he mounted quickly and easily, crossing the line majestically. An instant later the signal was hoisted that he had made a record.

Curtiss said that he had not pushed his machine to the limit of its speed, and laughingly declined to say more, adding that the most interesting incident of his flight was the view he got of his fallen rivals strewn around the course.

Big Four Train Runs Down Automobile at Kankakee, Ill.—Second Train Obstructed View.

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 24.—Mrs. George Granger, wife of a retired Kankakee merchant, and Miss Genevieve Rulig, a teacher in St. Xavier Academy, Chicago, were instantly killed and five other occupants of a touring car were seriously injured when the machine was run down on the Hobble avenue crossing of the Big Four in this city. The party were on their way to Mount Grove cemetery at the time of the accident. An engine and a caboose, backing cars on a side track, obstructed the view of the automobile driver (ill too late).

The injured: George Granger, husband of the dead woman, badly cut about the face and head.

Miss Amelia Fortin, sister of Mrs. Granger, spine injured, probable internal injuries.

Miss Jeanette Granger, daughter of Mrs. Granger, right leg and arm fractured. Left leg injured.

Paul Granger, young son of dead woman, badly bruised.

The body was held in a vault until a decision was reached as to its disposition. The body was not finally released until the court with Silver was made.

DEATH OF RACERS FAILS TO DAUNT

SPEED TRIALS AT INDIANAPOLIS RESUMED AFTER BOURQUE AND HOLCOMB ARE KILLED.

DAREDEVILS MUCH AFFECTED

Chevrolet Stopped Buick After Seizing Brain of Knox Driver Dashed Out—125 Miles an Hour Predicted.

Indianapolis, Aug. 20.—Undaunted by the killing of Driver Bill Bourque and his companion, Holcomb, whose lives were sacrificed to the ambitions of drivers and competition of space-eating machines, the track at the Indianapolis motor speedway presented just as lively a scene as ever Friday when the assembled daredevils appeared to tune up their cars for the second day.

The races, as a whole, were by far the best ever seen on the American continent, and many declare that in all the romantic race history of the famous Brooklands, England's track, there never was such a daring, swift and skilled array of pilots gathered together and pitted in the same arena on the same day. It was the opening of the big course with a ceremony of speed befitting its magnitude and importance.

Drivers and team managers are divided in their criticism of the track, but all agree that when it is entirely completed it will far surpass the Brooklands track, its only competitor.

Racing drivers who are wont to term themselves "brutes" when the speed demon holds them, proved, at the death of Bourque and Holcomb, the daring drivers, that they are but human.

The death of these two men, brought about by Driver Bill Bourque turning to see the car behind him when he himself was making a sharp turn, was no more tragic than the way the accident was broken to Denison, for years a Knox team mate of Bourque.

Denison was near the judges' stand when the cry "car wrecked" was repeated down the courses. Denison put his hands over his eyes. "Bourque," he cried, "that's Billy. My God, boys, Billy's been killed. He should have passed here a minute ago. Trained as he was, and knowing what Billy Bourque's time should be, Denison knew instantly that Bourque was late—that he was killed and his mechanical, too—for no one could escape death in a wrecked machine at 80 miles an hour.

Chevrolet, in Buick 37, led by five miles, and was turning into the home stretch back of Bourque. The latter's Knox No. 3 swerved. Chevrolet tried to avoid actually seeing the double tragedy, but Bourque's car came dangerously near wrecking Chevrolet and—so saw Bourque's brains dashed out. It was too much even for the daring Chevrolet. Car 37 drew up alongside the fence, and Chevrolet almost fell out into the arms of a guard.

"My eyes," he said. "I'm blinded. Oh, wasn't it horrible!" On turning to clear the wreckage of the Knox car, a bit of wreckage broke his glasses.

Starter E. J. Wagner of New York, expert on automobile tracks, suggested to the management that the entire course be closed. The drivers, however, objected to this because the oil is the way on these tracks and can not be wiped off easily.

Carl Fisher, president of the sport, was equally adamant that he would not close the track.

SHIELDS' MAN HIGHER UP

YOUNG NOTE BROKER FAILED TO SHOW CONSPIRACY.

Attorney Jerome Accuses Persch of Being Manipulator of a "Simple Vulgar Steal."

New York, Aug. 18.—Donald L. Persch, the young note broker, who has been indicted for grand larceny for the sale of mining stock belonging to F. Augustus Heinze, went back to the Tombs, accused by District Attorney Jerome of being the manipulator of a "simple vulgar steal."

Although urged to reveal the "man higher up," and the intricate ramifications in high finance which Persch suggested from time to time as he intimated that he had been made a cat's paw, he failed utterly to say anything to convince Mr. Jerome that there was any conspiracy.

Persch was arraigned before Judge Mulqueen in the Court of General Sessions, charged with the larceny of $100,000 worth of stock, which he is alleged to have procured from the Windson Trust Company, where it was placed in good faith by M. M. Joyce, acting for Mr. Heinze, as collateral for a $50,000 loan.

The young man's attorney insisted that Persch had been victimized by wiser and bigger men, but his client refused to make any statement which would bear this out.

The court refused to reduce bail from $50,000, and the prisoner entered no plea, the case going over to Monday.

WAS HIRED TO RAID BANK

Jacksonville Sheriff Declares Prisoner Was Paid $75 to Perpetrate Alleged Fake.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 18.—Sheriff Charles E. Gruff gave out an alleged confession from Joe Grant, alias Vigus, the suspect held here in connection with the alleged $2,500 robbery of the Merchants and Farmers Bank of Franklin, in which Grant declares he was paid $75 to perpetrate a fake robbery.

Getty Wright, cashier, his brother, T. W. Wright, an employee of the bank, and James Tribble, a policeman of Franklin, are held on warrants charging conspiracy to defraud the surety company which indemnifies the bank against loss.

Grant says a man came to him in Springfield and employed him to carry out the fake robbery. The envoy said $2,500 of the bank's funds had been lost in bucket shop operations, and it was necessary to account for the money.

Grant says a Springfield bartender got $25 for recommending him for the job, and his employer gave him the revolver he had when he jumped through the window after the alleged robbery. A weapon and $75 were found on Grant by the police when he was captured.

Eight Banks Swindled. St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 24.—Eight banks here were swindled out of $1,000 by two crooks who presented what purported to be certified checks in a St. Louis bank, but which proved to be bogus. The swindlers escaped. Their scheme was to deposit the bogus checks and draw a part of the amount of their face in cash.

Fear of Rats Causes Death. New York, Aug. 24.—Fear of rats and mice and the belief that her cat was chasing them toward her, killed Mrs. Sarah Nagler, 62, of East New York, for in her effort to escape an imaginary peril Mrs. Nagler fell out of a third story window.

Two Boy Bathes Drown. Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—While bathing in the Menominee river, Milwaukee, Joseph Britz, 423 Clark street, and Harry Wagner, 486 Clark street, aged 15 and 12 years respectively, were drowned. The boys were recovered.

WINS OR LOSES A PATIENT.

Little God of Love Is Responsible for Variations in the Income of a Dentist.

Cupid has more to do with making the dentist's income an uncertain and variable quantity than any other single influence. A dentist who from the girlhood of Gladys Vanderbilt yearly received fat fees for keeping her teeth in order remarked recently with regret at the loss of this source of revenue after she became Countess Szechenyi.

"A dentist never knows," he added, "when marriage is going to rob him of one of his most profitable patients. I am proud that it has been my experience that persons who have come to me to have their work done always come back again if their teeth need attention—until Cupid comes in to upset my calculations."

"Whenever I hear of one of my patients planning a wedding I know that I am going to lose a patient or win a new one. The bride and bridegroom almost invariably go to the same dentist. From my standpoint it's a case of lose one or win both."

The element of uncertainty that such a condition provides makes the poor dentist uneasy at times about the size of future incomes.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

DOG THAT TOLLS FOG BELL.

Intelligent Animal Is Invaluable Assistant to Keeper of Isolated Light Station.

Off the shores of Alaska, on a small, rocky island, is a little light station, connected with which is a fog bell. During the continuance of dense fogs, which frequently prevail, the bell is used to warn vessels of the danger of approaching too near the island and coast.

The lightkeeper has a large and very intelligent shaggy dog that answers to the name of Don Carlos. This dog has been trained to toll the fog bell when the weather is very heavy. So well trained is Don Carlos that, when the fog comes rolling in, he rushes, unbidden by the keeper, to the bell and begins to tug at the rope and to sound the alarm.

Don Carlos often takes his turn at the bell during the night when the keeper is busy looking after the light.

"I do not see how I could get along without Don Carlos," the keeper declares. "I am all alone and have no other assistant; but I can always rely implicitly on my dog. He knows his duty and faithfully performs it, whether told to do so or not."

Our Real Leisure Class.

Does any one think longingly of our harried and driven rich as the "leisure class?" Far from it are they. Dashing hither and yon from dawn to dawn every day in the year, at the call of emulation, none has less leisure than they. To see the real leisure classes of America visit Central park. There, on the benches and on the grass, you will see them—nursesmaids, sitting perfectly idle for hours while baby sleeps in his cab or frolics on the grass; grandmothers or grandpas keeping idle guard over the third, or even the fourth generation, and a miscellaneous collection of bums, stretched out wherever they can be most comfortable and caring not a whit that the world moves so long as they do not have to. They understand the real thing in leisure.—New York Press.

The Fox Who Had Lost His Tail.

A fox caught in a trap escaped with the loss of his brush. Thereafter feeling his life a burden through the ridicule to which he was exposed, he schemed to bring all other foxes into like condition with himself, that in the common loss he might better conceal his own deprivations. He assembled a good many foxes and publicly advised them to cut off their tails, saying they would not only look much better without them, but would get rid of the weight of the brush, which was a very great inconvenience. But one of them interrupting him said: "If you had not yourself lost your tail, my friend, you would not thus counsel us."—Aesop's Fables.

Strength of Early Impressions. Grown people have in general a very inadequate idea of the ability of little children. A tree is easily warped from its shape, so is the heart and the mind of a little child.

Said Froebel: "If I pierce the young leaf of the shoot of a plant with the finest needle, the prick forms a groove which grows with the leaf, becomes harder and harder, and prevents from obtaining its perfectly rounded form. Something similar takes place after wounds which touch the tender germ of the human soul. It may have been far different with him, if every individual in it had been treated at that tender age."

Decaying Newspaper Files.

Newspaper files are giving libraries no little anxiety. For the last two decades or so the daily journals have all been printed on wooden paper, which is not of durable quality. In course of time the files become brittle as dry, thin pine shavings. It is suggested by some students and librarians that the greater journals, at least, print a few copies daily, of their regular editions are "run off" on paper of the old-fashioned, strong sort, enough to insure the permanency of their own files, and saving other copies to the libraries of their home cities.

Patient's Grave Mistake.

"So you're feeling perfectly well again, and never touched the medicine I gave you, eh? You made a grave mistake, Mrs. Tibbs, a grave mistake. 'How so, doctor?' 'Why, if you taken my medicine, you'd have what cured you, and, as it is, you haven't the least idea.'—Life.

Marriage Failures
Perfection Is Not the Only Essential
By HELEN OLDFIELD

It is as the old proverb so confidently assures us, "marriages are made in heaven," the celestial combinations must be sadly shaken apart and otherwise fearfully mixed during the descent to earth. One continually meets couples the cause of whose pairing is a conundrum to all their acquaintance—sometimes to themselves. Few people marry their first loves and of those few some wish they had waited and taken sober second thought.

Venus marries Vulcan and finds her girdle grow tarnished and dingy in the smoke of his forge; Jupiter weds Juno, every inch a queen, yet, withal, too stately for every day, and wears her, like his crown, only in public and in state. Thus the world goes, since prehistoric ages.

Not many persons marry their ideals and perhaps it is just as well that they do not, since frequently such ideals are not of the sort which make for happiness. The impossible hero who has been and probably forever will be the dream of romantic maidens doubtless outside of a novel would be a most uncomfortable person to live with.

Fortunately for fallible humanity it is not perfection which so much is needed in the married state as congenial companionship, human sympathy resulting from genuine, permanent love, and these, with what somebody has called the salt of allowance and the oil of patience, largely make up the sum of happiness of married life. If the wife, according to the old formula which when it was written meant just what it says, is to "love, honor and obey," if this be her duty, equally is it that of the husband to "love, cherish and protect," and fitly to cherish demands a more subtle appreciation of the needs and wishes of the cherished one than is comprehended in even unquestioning obedience.

For happiness in marriage "they twain must be one flesh," a state which only can be understood by those who have probed the depths of matrimonial misery or risen to the heights of matrimonial bliss.

Life is for all of us in great degree what we make it; if we cannot choose the materials, we at least can fashion them to the best advantage.

The Caucasian mountaineers have a saying that "Heroism is endurance for one moment longer." Yet there are extreme cases when such heroism ceases to be a virtue, when outraged nature insists upon the primary law of self-preservation; where the strong hand of the law must be called upon to break the galling yoke of domestic tyranny, to loose the sullied bond which beyond endurance chafes.

But divorce, however necessary, in legal remedies ranks with the surgeon's knife in medicine and the woman who seeks it practically confesses herself a failure in that she has failed to satisfy the man whom, presumably of her own choice, she married.

Why Wealthy Break Down Early
By CARLOS M. DONALD

It is undeniable that a certain percentage of millionaires' children have a tendency to break down in early life. The break almost uniformly comes between the ages of 20 and 30. At that time they are subjected to the greatest strain on account of the large means they have at their command, which enables them to indulge in excesses of various kinds, and the hereditary factors, the weakness and lack of control seem to be emphasized particularly at this period.

In many instances the fathers of such young men are subjected to great mental strain, incident to and indeed a part of the effort involved in the acquirement of colossal wealth, which call forth constant toil, great anxiety and tremendous mental strain extending over long periods of years.

These conditions in themselves are terrifically exhausting and minimize most probably the stability of the mental and nervous organization which otherwise would be imparted to offspring. So many children of such parents come into the world innately unstable in their mental and nervous organizations.

Then, too, unfortunately, many of our most successful business men lose sight of the fact that their own success is due largely to the struggles and oftentimes hardships in early life, a mental discipline, so to speak, by reason of which they were unable to indulge in the mode of living which they provide for their children.

Had these same young men had to go through the hard routine of poor boys, they probably would never develop these conditions of mental defect or disease. On the other hand, it may be that they could not accomplish this work.

The ancient proverb that when the fathers have eaten sour grapes the children's teeth are set on edge doubtless originated in the recognition of this important part which heredity plays in human affairs. There is a destiny made for man by his ancestors, says Maudsley, and no one can elude, were he able to attempt it, the tyranny of his organization.

Business Man's Weakened Nerves
By P. EVAN JONES

A diagnosis of the American business man made by an eminent nerve specialist reveals him as suffering from "a neurosis partaking of the character of neurasthenia, psychasthenia and hysteria," the provoking causes of which are "continuous mental activity and excessive use of alcohol." This being the state of the business man's nerves, the lay observer is left to wonder at the deceptive appearance of health and heartiness with which he disguises his grave maladies from the eyes of all but the neurologist. It is amazing, says the New York World with what zest and energy these nervous wrecks plunge into outdoor recreation, what arduous games of golf they play, with what enthusiasm they motor. One might suppose that their general health was better than that of any previous generation of American business men. But appearances are proverbially deceitful. Behind their outward show of physical activity the inward cancer of decay is at work consuming their vitality. What seem to be well nurtured figures are the results of alcoholic inflation. It is a serious state of things, but at least a word of admiration may be expressed for the skill with which they disguise their symptoms.

Idle Cars and Car Shortage.

Railroads are continually jumping from the frying pan into fire. For more than two years they have frankly published every week the number of idle cars throughout the country. As the figures seem the silver lining to the cloud broadens and the numbers began to diminish. Now that they are threatening to vanish before we get a good last look at them, people are beginning to work themselves into a troubled state of mind over the fear of a car shortage. Even Chairman Knapp of the Interstate Commerce Commission is predicting one for the coming year, which is only a little more than four months away.

However, the country does not mind being burnt a little by friction of competition for freight cars. Railway people could no doubt like to know how it feels to have two customers clamoring for the same freight car. It begins to look like easy dividends, and they need not explain to analysts of their annual statements how they manage to meet all their fixed charges without trenching on their reserves. They can also come with better heart to Wall Street with their offerings of securities than at any time within three years.

These new sensations are after all things that are worth while enduring for. With every car groaning under its allowable proportion of freight, gross earnings will mount upward in such fashion to make the railroads feel that they can do all the double trucking, build all terminals, and supply all the equipment without tagging anybody to take the doubtful end of the bargain. The whole morale of the railway service from top to bottom is being the beneficial effects of the grand shift from the idle car to the days near at hand when the roads will have all that can do.—Wall Street Journal.

IRISHMEN AND WIVES ARRAYED AGAINST THE SPANISH.

Is Flung Stones Into Opposing Lines With Sling Shots, Doing Damage.

London, Aug. 21.—An indication of the fierceness of the fighting between Spanish troops at Melilla and the Irish army is found in dispatches from the front which tell of the effect of a hand grenade thrown by Col. Burget organized. The soldiers were armed with grenades which they threw into the ranks of the Spaniards by means of the mode of fighting is described to have been effective. Scores of men were killed and wounded by exploding grenades. Irish women are taking part in the fighting. They are themselves the use of slings and have thrown many of the Spaniards by flung stones into their ranks. The given out throws no light on the part of General Marina's latest sent against the Moors.

CONSUL AND WIFE HURT

Automobile of U. S. Representative Struck Wire in St. Petersburg Stretched by Assassins.

London, Aug. 21.—The Globe's St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs that United States Consul James Ragdale and his wife were slightly injured in St. Petersburg by their automobile striking a wire stretched across the Rue Kamenostroy. According to the Globe's correspondent, there is evidence that the wire was placed across the street by terrorists, who hoped to stop Premier Stolypin's car, which was expected to pass at the time. There is little doubt an attempt at assassination was contemplated. Several arrests have been made.

Men Threaten to Strike.

Memphis, Aug. 21.—The strike of local copper smiths, tinners and pipemen at the Illinois Central shops, set for Friday, has been delayed. Members of the union say that when the strike is called it will spread from one end of the system to the other, involving many thousands men. The greatest trouble, they say, is anticipated in Waterloo and East St. Louis. The reasons for the delay are not given.

Some 500 of those in attendance are from Great Britain, the others being members from America and other lands. Many of them are accompanied by their families, and they are being entertained in numerous private residences as well as in the hotels of the city.

Naturally most prominent of all the scientists here is Sir Joseph J. Thomson of Cambridge, England, the eminent physicist and president of the association. His annual address was the chief feature of the first session, and was listened to with the utmost interest. Among the other noted men present at the meeting are Francis Darwin of Cambridge, son of Charles Darwin, and Prof. E. Rutherford, who became famous for his researches concerning radium. Many interesting papers will be read to the association, among them being one on "The Chemistry of Flame," by Prof. H. B. Dixon of Manchester, and one on "Our Food from the Waters," by Prof. M. A. Herdman of Liverpool. Wednesday of next week the meeting will close with an address by Prof. J. H. Poynting of Birmingham on "The Pressure of Light."

After adjourning many of the visiting scientists are to make an excursion to the Pacific coast, and the cities along their route have planned to entertain them most hospitably.

TRAIN KILLS 2 BROTHERS

Asleep on Track, They Are Cut to Bits and Strawn Along Tracks Near Princeton, Ind.

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 25.—Two men, supposed to be Webster Mitchell and James G. Mitchell, brothers of Eckery, Ind., about 35 or 40 years old, were struck by a Southern passenger train at Knight Crossing, near here, and ground to bits. It is believed they were asleep on the track. The bodies were strawn along the rails for several hundred yards. The only means of identification were the names in a small notebook. The hat of one bore a Jonesboro, Ark., mark.

Many Were Drowned.

Montevideo, Aug. 25.—Between 150 and 200 persons were drowned or otherwise killed when, in a driving rain storm, when the Argentine excursion steamer Colombia and the North German Lloyd steamer Schlesien collided at the entrance of Montevideo harbor. The Colombia was entering port and the Schlesien was outward bound for Bremen. The Colombia's bow was crushed in and she sank almost immediately.

Train Hits Auto; One Killed.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 25.—Dr. Fay T. Edwards, aged 24, was instantly killed and his father, Dr. J. E. Edwards, aged 70, was fatally injured when a fast Chicago & Northwestern passenger train struck their automobile on a crossing near Toulon, thirty miles north of here. The aged physician suffers internal injuries and is not expected to live.

The Proper Question.

The man with the glassy eye and preternaturally solemn demeanor put down a sovereign at the booking office at Charing Cross, and demanded "a ticket."

"What station?" snapped the booking clerk. The would-be traveler steadied himself. "What stations have you?" he asked with quiet dignity.—London Globe

Saved by Brass Helmet.
Brass helmets worn by English fire fighters occasionally prove useful. At a recent fire 14 tons of glass fell on one man's head and completely buried him and when he had been dug out down to his shoulders another shower of glass came down and buried him again. He was in a hospital for four months and glass was coming out of different parts of his body for six months afterward, but he is still one of the best men of his company.

Baby Morphine Fiends

A sure and safe cure for disordered stomachs, bowels and fretfulness—splendid for teething infants. Sold by St. Bernard Mining Co., Incorporated, drug department.

Rules for Right Conduct.
If you want to be somebody, do something in the world which will benefit yourself and your fellows, lay the foundation of character strong and solid to resist the temptations and trials the world will put in your way in your onward march through life. Nail your colors to the mast of integrity and defend them with the ammunition of right thinking and well doing.

Seared With A Hot Iron, or scalded by overturned kettle—cut with a knife—bruised by slammed door—lured by gun or in any other way—the thing needed at once is Bucklen's Arnica Salve to subdue inflammation and kill the pain. It's earth's supreme healer, infallible for Boils, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Eczema and Piles. 25c. at all drug stores.

Boarding Houses.
The first time a man eats at a boarding house he is a Chesterfield in manners, but before he has taken three meals there he is playing a game like the rest of them. It is impossible to cultivate repose of manner and get enough to eat at a boarding house.—Atchison Globe.

Constipation cures headache, nausea, dizziness, languor, heart palpitation. Drastic physics gripes, sicken, weaken the bowels and don't cure. Doan's Regula's act and gently cure constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

In Pairs.
Life is marked by disappointments, and sometimes these come in pairs. A worthy Camden woman seeking a pension as a widow has found that her husband is enough alive to be drawing a pension himself.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold
A. S. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "Last year I suffered three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." For chronic coughs and lung trouble it has no equal. Refuse substitutes.

Best Treatment for Bruises.
In the treatment of bruises, water, either hot or cold, is usually efficacious. In some cases where the swelling is great it is well for a time to keep a wet cloth held firmly over the swelling, either with a hand or with a bandage.

Take Notice.
If you are all run down Foley's Kidney Remedy will help you, as it strengthens the kidneys so they will eliminate the impurities from the blood that depress the nerves, and cause exhaustion, backache, rheumatism, and urinary irregularities, which sap the vitality. Do not delay, and risk having Bright's disease or diabetes. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy as it is healing and antiseptic, and will restore health and strength. Refuse substitutes.

Sold by St. Bernard Mining Co., Incorporated, drug department.

The Spinster's Prayer.
"Dear Lord," is the favorite prayer of an Atchison spinster, "make me to see every time I come to thee with complaints what my married brothers and sisters have to put up with from their children, that I may cease my complaining, and be duly grateful that thou hast seen fit in thy wisdom to make a carefree spinster of me."—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

For indigestion and all stomach trouble take Foley's Orino Laxative as it stimulates the stomach and liver and regulates the bowels and will positively cure habitual constipation. Foley's Orino Laxative cures sick headache and biliousness and on account of its mild action and pleasant taste is especially recommended for women and children.

Sold by St. Bernard Drug Store, Incorporated.

Cheeriness.
Cheeriness is a thing to be more profoundly grateful for than all that genius ever inspired or talent ever accomplished. Next best to natural, spontaneous cheeriness is deliberate, intended and persistent cheeriness, which we can create, can cultivate and can so foster and cherish that after a few years the world will never suspect that it was not an hereditary gift.—Helen Hunt Jackson.

The Editor Had to Laugh.
While making the rounds for news this week we noticed a card on the wall of one of the physicians' offices, which read: "The leg of the stork is long, the leg of the duck is short; you can't make the leg of the stork short nor the leg of the duck long. Then why worry?" We had to laugh. De you?—Bedford (La.) Free Press.

Disagreeable at Home.
Lots of men and women who are agreeable with others, get "cranky" at home. It's not despatching, it's the liver. If you find in yourself that you feel cross around the house, little things worry you, just buy a bottle of Ballard's Herbine and put your liver in shape. You and everybody around you will feel better for it. Price 50 cents per bottle.

Sold by St. Bernard Mining Co., Incorporated, drug department.

Pig Errantry.
The report of the cattle market committee presented at Colchester town council the other day contained an item as to a pig starving, followed by "Resolved, That the town clerk communicate with the offender, warning him against committing any offense in future." It was touching to hear that penitent animal giving its word of honor that nothing of the sort should occur again.—London Globe.

The Crime Of Idleness.
Idleness means trouble for any one. It's the same with a lazy liver. It causes constipation, headache, jaundice, sallow complexion, pimples and blotches, loss of appetite, nausea, but Dr. King's New Life Pills soon banish liver troubles and build up your health. 25c. at all drug stores.

Poor Opinion of the Students.
The average student is about as well qualified to judge of the influence of his professor's teaching as is the little child to judge of the quality and quantity of candy he should eat.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

The Public and Its Papers.
We are sure that it is a delusion to suppose that the public likes a slavish paper—i. e., a paper always terrified that it may offend its readers if it speaks its real mind. They prefer one which is independent, though, no doubt, they do not like to see their pet theories handled too roughly. Yet even here they will stand a great deal of opposition to their own views if they know that the newspaper is acting sincerely.—London Spectator.

No matter how long you have suffered, Foley's Kidney Remedy will help you. Mrs. S. L. Bowen, of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely. It will cure you, as it has restored health and strength to thousands." Sold by St. Bernard Drug Store, Incorporated.

A Texas Chattel Mortgage.
A chattel mortgage was filed with the county clerk of Goazales county recently, wherein a turkey, hen, one gobbler, and all their increase, are mentioned as collateral. Goazales Inquirer.

There's rejoicing in Fedora, Tenn. A man's life has been saved, and now Dr. King's New Discovery is the talk of the town for curing C. V. Pepper of deadly lung hemorrhages. "I could not work nor get about," he writes, "and the doctors did me no good, but, after using Dr. King's New Discovery three weeks, I feel like a new man, and can do good work again." For weak, sore or diseased lungs, Coughs and Colds, Hemorrhages, Hay Fever, La Grippe, Asthma or any Bronchial affection it stands unrivaled. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial Bottle free. China's Multiple Crops.
China has three crops of tea—the spring crop in April, the second in May and the "even flower" crop about the first of July. The export season is throughout the year. Three crops of rice are harvested; export of this product is prohibited.

Beware of Chattering.
Conversation, like bombs, should be taken in moderation. About the only one that can thoroughly enjoy unlimited chatter is a member of the monkey tribe. To talk the clock around generally means words—not ideas.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

First-Class Lawyer.
"Well," said the young solicitor, after he had heard the statement of a client who was about to bring action for slander, "your case appears to be good. I think you can secure a verdict." "That's what I told my wife," said the client, "and yet she insisted at first that we ought to engage a first-class lawyer!"—Exchange.

The Foolish Painter.
An interesting anecdote is told, on the highest authority, in connection with the little Matthew Matis picture of "The Four Mills," which realized 3,300 guineas recently. The late M. Goupil of Paris, paid the artist 100 francs for the picture, and at the same time gave him a lecture on the foolishness of painting such unsalable stuff!

Tooth Cleanliness

If friction or rubbing where the only thing needed for thorough tooth cleaning and tooth health, most any dentifrice or a plain brush and water would be good enough. But this would not kill the germs of decay.

FORMALDINE TOOTH PASTE

reaches and destroys the germs of decay without in any way, shape or manner attacking the enamel of the gums. When applied to the teeth by a brush it is dissolved by the saliva in the mouth and in this way is carried between the teeth into decaying cavities and under the gums. A little put on a moistened tooth brush acts as a perfect cleanser and antiseptic even with most gentle brushing. It whitens the teeth because it cleanses them of all foreign substances such as stains, tartar, etc. A guaranteed dentifrice scientifically made by a reputable firm.

A COMMON ERROR.

The Same Mistake Is Made by Many Earlington People.

It's a common error To plaster the aching back, To rub with liniments rheumatic joints, When the trouble comes from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills, And are endorsed by Earlington citizens.

Mrs. Eva Hobbs, North Seminary St., Madisonville, Ky., says: "I have no hesitation in endorsing the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills as they are, without doubt, the best kidney medicine in the world. When they cured me of kidney trouble in the summer of 1903, I allowed my experience to be published in our local papers so that other persons who were suffering as I did might know what course to pursue to get relief. I was afflicted for years with acute pains through my kidneys and loins and often I had to give up and lie down. The kidney secretions were also irregular and distressing in passage. I tried remedy after remedy, rubbed my back with liniment, and wore plasters but received little or no relief. Doan's Kidney Pills made a complete and permanent cure for four years ago and it only required the contents of two boxes to bring about this result."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Beware Becoming Wet Blankets.

The pessimist wears a face that looks as if it had gone through the wash-wringer. She casts spells of weariness about and forecasts gloomy weather. We all have troubles enough to make us glum and wretched, but we also have joys enough to make us cheerful. Why let the glum and the frown get possession? The Lord loves a cheerful giver of cheer. Let the wet blanket shake herself and dry up.

COLORED COLUMN.

S. R. DRIVER, EDITOR.

The Baptist church inaugurated a revival, with the initial service in Alexander Park last Sunday. It is earnestly hoped that every Christian, of whatever denomination, will willingly assist in bringing our lair to the Lord and His Christ.

Rev. T. O. Stoner is nearing the close of his conference year, yet his pastoral work is as vigorous as when he first began, two years ago.

Rev. R. S. Smith, of the C. M. E. Church, attended the Negro Business League in Louisville, hence there was no services at our church on Sunday.

Again we are called to chronicle the death of one of our oldest citizens, Uncle Bal Frame, as he was familiarly known to all. Always quite and unobtrusive. With but two days' cessation from his daily vocation, he passed into the Great Beyond, without a groan, without a sigh, a terrible warning to all. Thus giving voice to the admonition, "Be ye also ready." Uncle Bal was born in Nelson county, Tenn., in 1852 and was married to Miss Millie Poulston in 1875. No children were born to them. Was baptized and joined the Baptist church in 1891. Departed this life Aug. 19, 1909. He leaves a wife and a host of friends.

He was buried by Zodiae Masonic lodge with honors. The funeral oration was indeed a gem, was pronounced by Rev. H. H. Amos, assisted by Rev. J. R. Evans. Interment took place in the new cemetery.

Mrs. Whitson Eaves is still very sick. Jesse X Moore's little boy is very sick at this writing.

Mrs. Bud Welch is visiting relatives in Chicago.

Rev. J. R. Evans takes this opportunity to thank Mrs. Sobra Duncan for a beautiful shirt, collar, tie and handkerchiefs on his departure to the association at Henderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fox entertained Rev. J. R. Evans and family, also ye editor, to a very elaborate dinner on Sunday.

Bud Welch is spending the week in Pembroke.

The M. G. M. Club held a very interesting meeting. Branch Dribver's on Sunday afternoon. At their entertainment on the night of the 21st, a neat sum was realized, which was banked in the name of "The Merriment Club."

Mrs. Amon Hunter and husband, of Birmingham, Ala., may be found at the residence of her brother, R. B. Slaughter.

Mrs. L. B. Cavanaugh has returned from the Women's Congress, held at Marion, Ky. She reports a pleasant trip and much business transacted.

Rev. H. Amos, who has been very sick, is much improved.

Rev. R. H. Hall, of Mortons Gap, was in town last Sunday.

Mrs. John Neely, who has been visiting friends and relatives in Columbia, Tenn., has returned.

Mrs. Hattie Fowler and Mrs. James Dunlap are visiting friends and relatives in Tennessee.

J. E. Alexander has returned from a week's vacation in Nashville and Hopkinsville.

Mrs. Frances Collins has returned from the National Grand Temple at St. Paul, Minn. Her report to the local Temple was most elaborate and indeed reflected credit on the date. A subscription to the business transacted, the places visited, in fact the entire report was, indeed, richly enjoyed by all.

RUNS AMUCK AND SHOOT UP TOWN

WITH DOUBLEBARRELED SHOT-GUN HE WOUNDS TWENTY-NINE MEN.

NEGRO IS SHOT, HUNG, BURNED

At First Shoots at Every White Man He Saw, and Then at Every Object Before Him—Sought Revenge for Injuries to Race.

Monroe, La., Aug. 25.—Angered, it is believed, because two of his friends had recently been shot by police in this city, William S. Wade, a negro, ran amuck on the principal business street of Monroe. With a double-barreled gun he shot first at every white man he saw, and then at every object before him. The fire was returned, and the negro finally fell dead with a bullet through his heart, but not before twenty-nine men, three of them negroes, had been wounded.

Three May Die.

Seriously wounded: Hugh Bigger, policeman, shot in abdomen and thigh; may die. T. H. Grant, deputy sheriff; shot in neck and breast; may die. Simon Marks, merchant, Thakegee, Ala., shot in breast and face; may die. George McCormack, manager of Ouachita Lumber company, West Monroe; arm shattered.

Among the slightly wounded are: Dr. A. A. Forsythe, mayor of Monroe, shot in right leg; D. A. Broad, banker and president of North Louisiana Shingle company, shot in face; Edward Strong, cashier Southern Express company, shot over right eye; Joseph Thompson, chief dispatcher on Iron Mountain railroad, shot in body; Albert Marx, vice president Southern Hardware company, shot in head; J. L. Kendall, train master Iron Mountain railroad, shot in body; J. G. Trousdale, secretary and treasurer Southern Grocery company, shot in body; J. W. Merryman, agent Wells Fargo Express company, shot in hand.

Body Publicly Burned.

Wade's body was publicly burned after it had been cut down from a pole on which it had been hung for half an hour or more after he was killed.

It was at first reported that Wade was half crazed from cocaine and cheap whisky, but an investigation by the police showed that when he purchased the shotgun and box of shells a few minutes before he opened fire, there was no cocaine or whisky in his system. He was drinking nor did he show evidence of having drunk.

Wade came from Pine Bluff, Ark., by several other means. He began to make trouble in police soon after they arrived. He alleged that they were members of a society in Arkansas, which he object revenge for all injuries to negroes.

Convict Leaps From Train.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 25.—John Wainwright, a convict, slipped a pair of shackles from his wrists, leaped from a train while it was going 40 miles an hour, and escaped. As Wainwright sprang toward the window, other prisoners crowded around the deputies and prevented them from shooting him.

Sheep Range Limited.

Deadwood, S. D., Aug. 25.—Sheepmen cannot range their herds along the Limestone country on the South Dakota-Wyoming boundary line, a part of the Black Hills forest. This was the decision of Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot. The entrance of sheep, he declared, would endanger the young growth of the forest.

Wilds Are Fought Shot.

Humboldt, Nev., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Elder (name changed) says that her husband, who was a hunter, was shot by a bullet while he was out hunting. She is expected to recover.

Steels in a Ship.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The Albany City Police reported having found a steel in a ship, which left Albany March 20 with a general cargo for Vancouver and Puget Sound ports. The Cable Monitor signalled "All well."

Caught by Overturned Auto.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 25.—Thomas B. Gilbert, ex-mayor of Kansas City, Kas., and his sister-in-law, Mrs. William Penner of Butte, Mont., were seriously injured when the motor car in which they were riding rolled over and pinned them beneath it.

Another County Goes "Dry."

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 25.—An other Indiana county—Union—was added to the "dry" list as the result of an option election. The majority against the saloons was 409.

Amble, Ind., Wiped Out.

Amble, Ind., Aug. 25.—Fire almost wiped out the village of Amble, Ind., this morning. The damage is about $50,000, partly insured.

1809—The Year of Genius—1809

Holmes the "Autocrat"

Poet, Novelist, Optimist and
Humorist, Born a Century Ago—Incarnation of the Spirit of Sunshine.

By James A. Edgerton

Copyright, 1909, by the American Press Association

LIKE A THREE CENT
PIECE IN A BUNCH OF PENNIES.

Holmes was an incarnation of the spirit of sunshine. He was many things—doctor, lecturer, good fellow and author—but his chief vocation was that of optimist. His humor was not of sudden surprises, but of diffusive geniality. He was a little chap—five feet four or thereabout—and once when in the company of many larger doctors, all six feet or more, said he felt like a three cent piece in a bunch of pennies. This motif has been attributed to other men, but James said it first. He was lecturing on anatomy at Harvard for thirty-five years and carried his warmth and glow into the class room, so much so that the "undergrads" set up a shout of delight whenever he hove in sight. In his old age he was likened to a little withered red cheeked apple, but the comparison was made in love and not in scorn. In his day Holmes was about the most universally loved man in Boston, and when one can win the affection of Boston he has the whole world at his feet. The autocrat shone erature studied law for a year, then switched to physics and in the end found himself in literature. He had followed Paul's injunction and had tried all things, or nearly all, and held fast that which was good. While he was still on earth he and his friends debated whether he had rendered the greater service to the race in an essay he had written on puerperal fever or in his novels, essays and poems, but the ages will only recall that he wrote on puerperal fever, if indeed they recall the fact at all, because he wrote the novels, essays and poems. The same Paul already dragged into this article by the heels made tents. He likewise indited various epistles. This earth has been full of tentmakers, but it has only one thirteenth chapter of Corin thians. In like manner learned folk have written on fevers for some thousands of years, but there is only one "Chambered Nautilus."

This was not the only fever episode in the life of Holmes. When he first hung out his shingle his native humor got the best of him, and he said something about small favors—and fevers—being thankfully received. This quered his practice at once, as people will not have a doctor who makes fun of their diseases. If there is anything the average man or woman wants taken seriously it is his or her ailments. The young doctor finally did get patients, but in a few years took to lecturing in the colleges. Then he discovered that, after all, he was a poet, when he was still happier and the world likewise.

It was Lowell who literally dragged Holmes into literature, much against that gentleman's wish and only when he was forty-seven years old. Lowell was offered the editorship of the At-pronounced his best effort and that President Lincoln often recited. But now his nose is thin. And it is upon his chin. Little is said. And a croak is in his back And a melancholy crack In his laugh.

has always struck me as especially pat. His later poems, "Bill and Joe," "Dorothy Q.," "The One Horse Shay," which was written to ridicule a certain school of logic, and many others have passed into the common speech of the race. To my mind "The Nautilus" is the noblest of all, especially the inimitable last two stanzas:

Thanks for the heavenly message brought by thee,
Child of the wandering sea,
Cast from her lap forlorn.
From thy dead lips a clearer note is born
Than ever Triton blew from wreathed horn.

While on mine ear it rings
Through the deep caves of thought I hear
A voice that sings:

Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!

From no conceivable standpoint can serious fault be found with that poem. For classic diction, pleasing form, music, clearness, imagery, mystic touch, deep thought and noble appeal it is as well nigh perfect of its kind as our human things attain. Whatever may be said of his other work, "The Chambered Nautilus" makes Oliver Wendell Holmes a member of that

Choir invisible
Whose music is the gladness of the world.
It is a rare privilege to chat with the unborn and to talk into the ear of the ages.

Dr. Holmes belonged to what he was fond of calling "the Brahmin caste of New England." Other people speak of it as "the Cambridge school of poets," the greatest group America has produced and one of the greatest in the history of letters. "The Autocrat" outlived all the rest. He was eighty-five at death, truly "The Last Leaf."

And if I should live to be
The last leaf upon the tree
In the spring
Let them smile as I do now,
At the old forsaken bough
Where I cling.

But they did not smile. No. Their eyes shone too much for smiles. There was a suggestion of tears in the look; also of affection and reverence, both for the gray poet and for his mighty brethren who had passed on end of whom he was the one remaining symbol.

"Say this," he once charged an interviewer, "and you will say something worth coming for: We made American literature American when there was no truly American literature. I am glad that the younger writers today are so inclined to write what they themselves as Americans think and see and feel. I believe in being American."

There he sounded a note that must keep on ringing until there is an American literature greater than the world has seen till now. The Cambridge group were the prophets of some mightier school that is to be. All our accomplishments in other fields point to an equal achievement in this. A new era of invention, a new industrialism, a new politics and a new self reliance and self upbuilding are coming into birth here, and they must have an adequate voice. These poets of the nineteenth century were the singers of the dawn, heralding the fuller burst of melody. They did make an American literature and made that literature respected the world around. In this they rendered a greater service than they could have known. When the fuller chorus breaks it will fulfill and reveal the old. We shall then see how much they accomplished who laid the foundations of the temple of American letters.

Like his great associates, Dr. Holmes' home life was white. He married Amelia Lee Jackson, whose unselfishness, loyalty and tact made her an ideal wife for a man of letters. Mrs. Holmes and two children the aged poet saw laid in the grave before him. One son only survives him, and he, too, is named Oliver Wendell Holmes and is a justice of the supreme court of the United States.

In the close of the "Autocrat," when that worthy was taking his last walk with the schoolmistress, occurs this touching scene:

"I think I tried to speak twice without making myself distinctly audible. At last I got out the question, 'Will you take the long path with me?' 'Certainly,' said the schoolmistress, with much pleasure. 'Think,' I said, 'before you answer. If you take the long path with me now I shall interpret it that we are to part no more.' 'The schoolmistress stepped back with a sudden movement, as if an arrow had struck her. . . . 'Pray, sit down,' I said. 'No,' she answered softly. 'I will walk the long path with you.' 'I believe in being AMERICAN.'"

Dr. Holmes has long been a larger part of the world's life than he was. The world was a better place for his presence. The world is a better place for his memory.

everywhere—as a practitioner, actor, teacher, essayist, novelist, poet, after dinner speaker, conversationalist and society man. When the famous Saturday Night club had its monthly spreads, with such far shining ones as Emerson, Longfellow, Hawthorne, Agassiz, Sumner and Whittier about the board, it was Lowell and Holmes who carried off the conversational honors. Perhaps if our doctor-poet had not spread his glow over so many fields he would have been more intense, but we are thankful for it as it was. The divine spark was there, and that is what we are thankful for, whether it gleams in many places or in one.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.
[Born Aug. 29, 1809; Died Oct. 7, 1894.]

Holmes came in with that wonderful constellation of genius that reached the earth in 1809, and was born on Aug. 29, only a few days after Alfred, son of King Henry II. His father was a straitlaced New England preacher of the school, but his mother was touched with the humanities, the geniality and the culture that afterward charmed the world in her son. He took his nature from his mother, so that he was not only a Harvard bred but a Harvard bred to seek his heaven in the world of letters.

Before the Atlantic episode Dr. Holmes had already made some reputation as a poet. The year he was studying law he had written "The Nautilus," which was published in the Atlantic. It was a masterpiece of its kind, and it was the only poem of his that was ever published in the Atlantic. It was the only poem of his that was ever published in the Atlantic.

A GENIAL CROWD.

Recently at a dinner party the conversation turned upon the subject of clubs. The special features of the Athenaeum were referred to with great respect and then J. M. Barrie, who was the only member of that august club who happened to be present, intervened.

"After having been elected by the Athenaeum club," he said, "I went there for the first time and looked about for the smoking room. An old man with long, white hair was wandering in a lonely way about the hall. I asked him if he would be so kind as to tell me the way to the smoking room. He agreed with alacrity. When we returned to the hall I thanked him heartily, when he begged me to do him the honor of dining with him. 'But, my dear sir,' I said, 'you have been far too kind to me already. I cannot think of imposing myself upon you in this fashion.'"

"Imposing yourself!" exclaimed the old man in an eager voice. "On the contrary, you will be doing me the greatest favor in the world; the fact is, I have belonged to this club for thirty years and you are the first member who has ever spoken to me!"—Beliman.

New Artistic Viewpoint.

The story is told of Riccardo Martin, whose voice has conquered New York:

It appears that his tailor was very anxious to hear him sing, so the other day Martin sent him a couple of tickets for "Carmen."

A few days later, when he saw the tailor, he naturally asked him: "How did you like it?" To which the tailor replied:

"It was simply awful! Your trousers didn't fit you at all!"—Musical America.

Bjarks—Don't you know him? Why, he's a spring poet.

Tjarks—Spring poet? Mean to say a spring poet can sport a tall hat and diamonds?

Bjarks—Sure thing! He wrote a poem on a wagon spring and the manufacturers are paying him an opera singer's salary.

Every purchaser of a motor car discourages the life of the horse fly. Some sort of a bug or fly will have to be invented to bite autos and make them stink, switch their tails, and klick up. Three in Family Win.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 21.—Fresh windfalls of luck in the Flathead reservation claim drawing contest happened to the family of Holmer M. Thorp, a West Coast grocery teamster. Thorp himself won a claim, also his son, J. M. Thorp, and his daughter, Miss Mabel, a stenographer. The three will try to get adjoining claims.

ENTRIES AND EXHIBITS.

Exhibition and Classification of the Kentucky State Fair.

Entries and exhibits of all livestock departments except for horses, mules and jack stock will close Monday, Sept. 6th, at 6:00 p. m., and all other departments prior to Friday, Sept. 10. Entries of horses, mules and jack stock will close positively at 12 o'clock noon the day before the exhibition. There will be a printed program of the entries of horses, jack stock and cattle, together with the name of the owner, name and color of the animal and number of the entry, which must correspond with the number worn by the person in charge of the animal. It is absolutely essential that this information accompany the entry, which must be filed with the secretary before the closing date. Exhibits must be placed by 9 o'clock Monday morning, Sept. 13th, and all exhibitors will be notified. There are 1,400 different classes in which prizes are offered, and there is a total of over 300 lots.

The horse classification is subdivided into classes suitable for light harness, five-gaited saddle-horses, roadsters, combined harness and five-gaited horses, American carriage horses, three-gaited saddle-horses, combination horses, plantation saddle-horses, high stepping and runabout classes, Saddle and ponies and fine horses.

Good premiums are given for both mules and jack stock. In the beef cattle department, Short-horns, Herefords, Polled Durhams, Aberdeen-Angus and Red Polls are given most liberal classifications. In the Dairy Cattle Department, Jerseys, Holstein-Friesians, Guernseys and Ayrshires are recognized. The swine department includes Berkshires, Poland Chinas, Duroc Jerseys, Chester Whites, Tamworths, Hampshires and Yorkshires. In the sheep department prizes are offered for the following breeds: Shropshires, Southdowns, Oxford, Hampshires, Cotswolds, Dorsets, American Merinos, Delaine Merinos, Ramboulllets, Lincolns, Cheviots and also a class for Angora goats.

The poultry department covers every known standard variety. The same is true of the pigeon department. The prize money for these departments being much larger than last year. The department for vegetables and melons, field seed and grain and tobacco contains classes for almost every product grown on the farm. In horticulture there are over 700 prizes offered for apples, peaches, pears, grapes and miscellaneous fruits. Plants and flowers, one of the most beautiful and attractive exhibits of the State Fair, will be well taken care of this year and will be placed alongside of the women's department. In no department is there a more interesting collection of premiums than in that set aside for woman's work, children's work and table luxuries.

FINE DAIRY STOCK.

Holstein-Friesians at the Kentucky State Fair.

The Holstein-Friesian has long been known to Kentuckians as a great milk producer, but there has been no concerted action among the breeders of this dairy cow in Kentucky. The fact that the three hospitals for the insane and the state feeble-minded institution at Frankfort have decided to use this breed altogether in their dairies, resulting six or seven hundred cows, is a great stimulus to the breed in Kentucky.

The $350 donated to the Kentucky State Fair by the Holstein-Friesian Association is in great measure due to Stanley Milward, a member of the board of control for these institutions, and a recognition on the part of the Holstein-Friesian Association of the value such a move would be to this breed of cattle in the state. The sayings will have on exhibition at the Kentucky State Fair some of the best specimens of the black and white dairy cows to be found in the country.

Students' Judging Contest.

Commissioner M. C. Rankin has offered two sets of prizes for farmer boys in this state and for the students in the Agricultural College. The amount for farmer boys is $100, to be awarded to the young man who makes the largest score in judging livestock at the State Fair. This money to be used as scholarship to the Agricultural Department of the State University. The contestant to be required to file written opinion, with reasons therefor, on horses, cattle, swine and sheep exhibits. The prize for students' judging contest amounts to $50, to be divided into $20, $15, $10 and $5. Competition will be limited to students in the State University. It is the purpose of the commissioner in offering these specials to educate the young men of the state in livestock judging. The requirements are quite liberal, and there is no reason why any bright young man in the state should not enter the contest.

The Louisville public schools will for the first time have an exhibit of work done in the various grades at the State Fair grounds this year. The week of Sept. 13-18. The State Fair is getting to be more an educational institution. It is hoped before many years a great display of the work of the various schools of the state will be on exhibition.

AN ENERGETIC FORCE.

The Organization of the Kentucky State Fair Work.

Few realize the amount of labor and the amount of organization that it takes to put on a State Fair. On September 13th at Louisville will be opened the seventh annual Kentucky State Fair. Visitors will find on exhibition the best specimens of practically every product of the state. To collect these exhibits and to systemize them so as to have everything ready for inspection and to operate the same for six days, costs about $50,000. First comes the secretary, who is charged with the responsibility of getting everything in readiness together with a large clerical force, then the heads of each department, which is always some member of the State Board of Agriculture, with superintendents and assistants sufficient to look after each exhibit; a force of watchmen, guards, ticket sellers and takers, laborers, etc., until if the whole force were gathered together it would represent a good-sized army. Each person is adapted to handle his particular work, and no more system is required in any great industrial plant than in an exhibition of such magnitude. It was through this thoroughly organized force that all the details of last year's fair was worked out in such an incredibly short time. And the energy displayed by such a force is one of the interesting things to be noted at a state fair.

A FINE OUTING.

Tenting on the Kentucky State Fair Grounds.

Arrangements have been made for those who want to take a week's outing to have their own tent upon the State Fair grounds. Persons desiring a tent should write to Secretary Newman of Louisville, Ky., and notify him, and tents can be secured and furnished to visitors at actual cost. Many persons have an idea that they can take in the entire fair in one day, when in fact six days can be very profitably spent in studying the various exhibits that will be upon the grounds. Many for the first time visiting the State Fair for one day, leave with the determination to come again the next year and spend several days and make their arrangements accordingly.

ADVANTAGE TO FARMERS.

Equity and Grange Headquarters at the Kentucky State Fair.

The Kentucky State Fair management for the week of Sept. 13-18 has provided a tent to be known as Equity Headquarters, and also one to be known as Grange Headquarters, for the use of members of these organizations, free of cost. It is to be hoped the farmers will make use of the accommodations provided for them and feel perfectly at home during the fair week.

Pain's Fireworks at the State Fair.

The State Fair will again have Pain's Fireworks as a night attraction. Novelties in fireworks not heretofore seen will be introduced and a magnificent display of forty numbers will be given each night, including such devices as "The Weird White Falls" on a gigantic scale, 200 feet long and 75 feet high. Also, a wonderful device known as "Fighting the Flames," showing a house burning, with the fire engine playing water upon the flames, all done in fireworks. Monster portraits of well-known people. The Pain company will also put on a wonderful new device known as "The Pillar of Light," showing a pillar of fire of intense brilliancy rising fifty feet in the air, making the entire surroundings as bright as day.

In connection with the fireworks there will be provided entertainment by noted specialty artists, and a big concert each night by the band, making a most charming evening and one long to be remembered.

Tobacco at the State Fair.

A most liberal premium list is offered for tobacco and a large and valuable exhibit is expected. Classes are provided for the following Burley types: Red Leaf, Bright Leaf, Cigarette Wrapper and Bright Trash. The dark types are Black Wrapper, Long or African Leaf, French Leaf, Italian Leaf, Green River Leaf and Stemming Leaf. In addition to a regular prizes, Hon. M. C. Rankin offers $75 in specials for the best display of Burley crop, best display of Dark Tobacco and the best display of Green River Tobacco. Not more than four samples can be entered of a single crop, but if exhibitor has more than one crop raised on his farm he is entitled to four samples out of each crop.

Horse Show at the State Fair.

At every fair, whether big or little, in Kentucky, the horse show is one of the predominant features, and the Kentucky State Fair of 1909 will be no exception. With one of the most attractive classifications ever offered at a Southern fair, with high class judges to tie the ribbons and the best covered show arena in the world, there should be horses enough and of choice quality at this show. As the horse exhibit can usually be depended upon to take care of itself, it is believed that with the addition of the night show feature an unusual array of equine celebrities will be paraded before the public.

SUFFERING.

Release my hands she said to him. As they stood in the entry way. It was night, dark night where he stood with her. And nothing the youth did say. And "Release my hands!" she said again. But he would not let them go. And he said things in her ear in a throaty voice and low: "Oh, release my hands!" screamed the maid to him. But he wouldn't, alas! alas! "Well, if you won't," shrieked the maid at last. "Then, darn it all! scratch my back!"

Depew Inherits Tskikiveness. "My father," said Chauncey M. Depew, "was a frugal and saving man. He never approved of the waste of anything, including time."

"One night he went to a prayer meeting. The brethren were backward. After a wait of a quarter of an hour my father rose and said: 'It is a shame to waste all this valuable time. Will not some brother tell his experience?'"

"No one rose and my father continued: 'Will some one lead us in prayer?'"

"There was no response to this appeal and my father said: 'In that case I will improve the time by making a few observations on the tariff.'" —New York Sun.

Embarrassed Mules.

One of the humorous passages in Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court," relates how a party of travelers, composed of ladies and gentlemen, were telling funny stories and how the Yankee was able to trace the progress of the joke down the cascade by the way the mules blushed. The idea of a mule blushing at anything, even the Salome dance, in these times is of course preposterous. The embarrassment of those early mules was a fitting rebuke to the ladies aboard the mules, for we are led to infer that the ladies didn't blush.

He's Famous Now.

"Some people work years in vain to become famous and others win fame in a single day."

"Right you are. There is the case of that Ohio man who traded his wife for a keg of beer."

FOR HIS SAKE.

"He hasn't enough sense to get in out of the rain."

"Is that why his wife is so anxious to move to Arizona?"

Slightly Qualified.

"A woman's as old as she looks." "This saying we don't doubt." "As old as she looks; that is. Before she is dressed to go out."

A Good Suggestion.

"Oh, I should so like to become famous," sighed the youthful poet.

"Well, if you will get a haircut and put on a clean collar," said the sensible old gentleman, "maybe Fame may be persuaded to take you on probation."

Suspicion.

Stubb—I notice your wife doesn't wear her 500-button gown to church any more?

Penn—No; it was too embarrassing. Every time a button turned up on the collection plate the parson glanced at her.

In Self-Defense.

"How do you tell bad eggs?" queried the young housewife.

"I never told any," replied the fresh grocery clerk, "but if I had anything to tell a bad egg I'd break it gently." —Christian Guardian.

Love's Change of Costume.

He—in olden times women disappointed in love used to don nun's garbs.

She—Yes; but the styles have changed. Nowadays they go into breach of promise suits. —Bohemian.

An Unheeded Command.

"Mr. George kissed me last night." "What did you do?" "I told him to stop." "Did he?" "Well, no, I don't believe he heard me."

Not Unusual.

"Withersby seems to have a grudge all the time. I wonder what can be the matter with him?"

"Oh, a very common complaint." "And what may that be?" "He's married."

Good Advice.

"Now that you are married, my son, listen to me."

"What is it, dad?" "Try to be a husband, not merely an ex-bachelor."

Doesn't Use Diplomacy.

"You say he poses as a diplomat?" "Just so, but I don't see how it helps him any."

"You don't?" "No, he always says his debts."

VARIETIES OF CORN FLOWER.

Three Hundred and Fifty Different Specimens in Existence, According to Botanists.

Germany adopted the corn flower as a national institution many years ago, the adoption coming about more by way of a popular choice. It is a common flower all over Europe, but rather more prolific in Germany than in any other of the countries graced by it.

Botanists tell us that there are no less than 350 varieties of the corn flower to be found, but the plant that is found in profusion in the realms of the Kaiser is said to be the most beautiful of all. The Germans admire it for the richness of its wreath-like circle of outer florets and the splendor of its deep azure tints as it opens to the sun.

At one time German scientists attributed certain medicinal properties to the corn flower, and its blue blossoms were used also to some extent in domestic dyeing, but latterly these properties are not so much credited to it.

Although Germany lays claim to the finest of the species, America may boast also of some beautiful specimens of the corn flower. It is said to have been brought to this country first in the ballast of ships in the days antedating the modern ocean liner, which carries only water ballast. In this country it is variously known as the Bachelor's Button, Corn Bottle, Witches' Belies or Thimbles, Blue Bonnet, and Blue Poppy.

MUSICIAN A MASTER OF WIT.

Biography of Edward MacDowell relates Some Examples of the Master's Caustic Humor.

In a biography of Edward MacDowell by Lawrence Gilman, the writer quotes some of the famous musician's witticisms. On one occasion he had been told of a performance of his composition, "To a Wild Rose," played by a high-school girl on a high-school piano at a high-school graduation festivity. "Well," MacDowell remarked, "I suppose she pulled it up by the roots!"

Some one sent him about this time, relates Mr. Humiston, a program of an organ recital at which this same "Wild Rose" was to be played.

"He was not pleased with the idea, thinking doubtless of a style of performance which plays Schumann's 'Traumerl' on the great organ diapasons. He remarked simply that it reminded him of a hippopotamus wearing a clover-leaf in his mouth."

A member of one of his classes at Columbia, finding more unoccupied space on the page of his book, after finishing the exercise, filled up the vacancy with reats. When his book was returned the page was covered with corrections—all except these bars of reats, which were inclosed in a red line and marked:

"This is the only correct passage in the exercise." —Youth's Companion.

An Honest Boy Rewarded.

Honesty is appreciated—even among politicians. During a recent political convention in North Carolina a newsboy named Cicero Alexander sold a paper to a delegate who gave him a dollar and was to wait for his change. The boy on returning, could not find his customer and began to cry. The chairman of the convention, impressed by his honesty, announced the matter before the whole assemblage—the result being not only that the man who had the change coming to him let the boy have it, but a collection of $19.35 was taken up for him by the delegates. Some one shouted that the youngster should be made state treasurer, and by unanimous vote the convention recommended him for chief page in the legislature. —Exchange.

Bought by King George in 1771.

The old house standing on the corner of Batavia and Roosevelt streets, New York, one of the few buildings left intact as a relic of colonial times, is about to be torn down to make way for an apartment house. The house, a bit altered, has been standing since the middle of the eighteenth century. It is one of the landmarks of the Fourth ward. In the year 1771 King George III. bought the house and property for the sum of $75. The deed of sale, with the signature of the king attached, is now in the possession of the present owner, Thomas Farrell, of 72 West One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street. An option on the property has been given for about $100,000. —Exchange.

Hunting Grounds for Naturalists.

Those who are curious about birds may spend time to great profit in looking at the poulterers' shops when game is in season. There they will find many rare and even valuable specimens that apparently have been thrown into the hamper by the man who shot them on the chance of his receiving something from the London dealer. A very good museum of stuffed birds might be got by simply purchasing those that through ill luck have found their way into Leadenhall Market. —Country Life.

Well Named.

"What's that you call your mule?" "I call him 'Corporation,'" answered the old colored man.

"How did you come to give him such a name?"

"Fum studyin' de animal an' readin' de papers. Dat mule gits no' blame an' abuse dan anything else in de township, an' goes ahead havin' his own way, jest de same." —Washington Star.

"You Must Get Up Before the Engine 'Go!'"

An engine does not run today because there was a fire, and steam, in it yesterday. Nor does it run because it's a good engine---the best in the railroad yards; nor because people are in the habit of seeing it run, and know that it CAN run.

The fireman has to build a fire in it TODAY if it is to be useful today.

A store is not a busy store unless it is advertised today. It's not busy because it is "well known;" nor because it is a good store, and well located. It "goes" because of the publicity steam that is gotten up TODAY.
